

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

IEA WORLD CONGRESS 2029

Bring the World's Leading Economists to Your Country

The International Economic Association (IEA) invites economic associations, universities, research institutions, and eligible partners to propose their city and country as the host of the IEA World Congress 2029. The IEA World Congress is one of the world's leading gatherings of economists. It brings together Nobel Laureates in Economic Sciences, leading economists, policymakers, and emerging scholars from around the world to present their latest research, exchange ideas, and connect with the next generation of economists.

A Global Platform. A Lasting Impact.

Hosting the IEA World Congress offers a unique opportunity to:

- Place your city and country on the global economic map.
- Bring together 1,000 economists worldwide, connecting young economists with leading scholars.
- Showcase your country's research, institutions, and intellectual talent to a global audience.
- Strengthen international academic and policy networks, fostering research collaboration and dialogue.
- Build lasting economic, academic, and professional connections beyond the Congress.

The IEA will work closely with the host to deliver a world-class Congress, with the scientific programme led by the IEA and the host contributing through active participation in the Programme Committee. The Congress will showcase leading economists from around the world, foster lasting international networks, and elevate the host city and country as a global hub for economic thought, research, and policy dialogue.
